He, in effect, undertakes in this letter to vindicate his Abolition friends of Lancaster from their guilty 1851, shall have been received and examined some Did this circumstance lessen its value or render it general account. less worthy of his approbation? If he had been a really good citizen and faithful public officer, he would have lost not a moment in availing himself of the opportunity thus afforded him of wiping from his new home on the Pacific, preparatory the statute-book of Pennsylvania a most shameful and iniquitous law.

He was no doubt perfectly familiar with the bill which was sent to him for his concurrence, and it would not have taken him more than one minute to sign it; and he acknowledges in his speech that he did sign others after the one in question was received by him, but they were trifling and unimportant, and local in their character, and did not, therefore, require the deep study, the laborious examination, the intense and excruciating consideration which were involved in the anti-Abolition bill! We have just brilliancy of achievements and the resolute valor with as little doubt as that the pen with which we are now writing is in our hand, that Gov. Johnson would that with the execution of Buch. We are free to say have signed the bill the very moment it was delivered to him, if it had closed the jails of the State still more than they were before to the use of the United States for the reception of apprehended fugitive slaves. The truth cannot be concealed, and it is idle for the whig press of Pennsylvania or elsewhere to deny it, that he is a thorough-going Abolitionist; and, honestly believing him to be so, from the uning majority, by his democratic opponent at the ensuing election, as will take away from him every prospect of ever again having a chance of shrinking. as he has done, from the bigh duties of the office to which he has been elevated.

We belong to the Whig party, and have always belonged to it: but our regard for the character and welfare of the whole country forbids our uniting in the support of any man, though he be a Whig, who we believe is one of its greatest enemies, and although we would be much pleased to witness a Whig victory in any Northern State, under ordinary circumstances, yet, if such a victory is to give "aid and comfort" in any manner or degree to the vile faction of Abolitionists whose poisonous fangs are fastened in the vitals of the Republic, and are daily threatening it with a miserable death, we would mourn rather than rejoice over it. We have no soft words or honied phrases for this serpent-brood of hypocrites and traitors, whose breath pollutes the atmosphere in which they live. We have no toleration for their disgusting and loathsome practices. and, until the high-minded and law-abiding of the land rise in the strength and majesty of a virtuous indignation and crush the monsters who seek to blast and to desolate the dearest interests of the country, there will be nothing but ceaseless disturbances. disorders and distractions amongst us. We hope to live to see the day when the wrath of the people will sweep them away as the West wind of Egypt did the locusts, which were not a greater plague to Phathe United States.

Since the above was written, the last mail has brought us the following letter, from the Rev. Mr. Gorsuch to Gov. Johnston, in relation to the permitted murder of his tather, and the shameless neglect of duty by the Governor. If Johnston's conscience is not as tough as a bull's hide, he will not "sleep well o' nights" for a long time to come. A man's thirst for political station must be incalculably great, when, for the sake of it, he will connive at such crimes as were committed in Christiana. The rattle snake finds a superior foe in the deer and the black snake. Wherever a buck discovers a rattle snake in a situation which invites attack, he loses no time in preparing for battle. He makes up within ten or twelve feet of the snake-then leaps forward and aims to sever the body of the snake with his sharp bifurcated hoofs. The first onset is most commonly successful, but if otherwise, the buck repeats the trial until he cuts the snake in twain. The rapidity and fa- J. & D. I felt myself carried onward upon the backs of several animals, that in the dense drove ran close together. These frightened at their strange burden, bellowed loudly, and dashed on to the front .-A sudden thought struck me, and fixing on that which was most under mc. I dropped my legs astride of him, embracing his hump, and clutching the long woolly hair that grew upon his neck. The animal "routed" with extreme terror and soon headed the band. This was exactly what I wanted; and on we went over the prairie, the bull running at top speed, believing, no doubt, that he had a panther or a catamount between his shoulders. I had no desire to disabuse him of his belief: and, lest he should deem me altogether harmless, and come to a halt. I slipped out my bowie, which happened to be "handy," and pricked him whenever he showed signs of lagroared out, and ran forward at a redoubled pace .ing on behind, with a front nearly a mile.
